RISK DISCLOSURE

RISK DISCLOSURE

Trading in financial markets involves a significant level of risk. This disclosure is provided for informational purposes only and does not imply that all listed risks will necessarily be incurred by you. Its primary objective is to inform clients of the trading and non-trading risks that may arise when participating in financial market activities.

Before making any deposit, you should clearly determine its purpose and ensure that you never invest funds that you cannot afford to lose. Any deposited amount should not negatively affect your financial stability in the event of a loss.

Trading in the foreign exchange market carries substantial risk, including the potential for losses that may exceed expectations or occur rapidly due to market conditions.

LEVERAGE RISK

Leverage enables you to trade positions larger than your initial deposit. While leverage may increase potential profits, it can equally amplify losses. Its effect can be beneficial or detrimental depending on market movements and trading decisions.

Psychological factors also play a critical role. Higher leverage may create the false impression of unlimited profit potential with minimal risk; however, this is not the case. Although large trading volumes can result in significant gains, they also carry the risk of losing most or all of the invested capital. Even minor market fluctuations may have a substantial impact on your account when leverage is applied.

You should carefully assess and select an appropriate leverage level that aligns with your risk tolerance. By using leverage, you acknowledge and fully accept all risks associated with its application and consequences.

VOLATILITY RISK

Many financial instruments traded in the markets exhibit high intraday volatility. Volatility refers to rapid price movements within a short timeframe, during which prices may reach new highs or lows. Such conditions can result in either considerable profits or substantial losses.

You acknowledge and fully accept the risk of losses arising from high market volatility.

TECHNICAL RISK

During trading activities, technical issues may occur on your side, and you accept responsibility for any losses resulting from, including but not limited to:

- Software malfunctions
- Failures or interruptions in communication systems
- Loss of internet connectivity
- Incorrect configuration of your trading terminal
- Hardware failures
- Delays in platform or terminal updates
- Failure to review or comply with instructions published on the official website of JustMarkets Online Trading.

JustMarkets Online Trading shall not be liable for losses resulting from delays in connecting to its servers due to system overloads, excessive client requests, or other technical constraints beyond reasonable control.

MARKET RISK

You acknowledge that under abnormal or volatile market conditions, order execution times may be extended, and pricing may differ from expected levels.

ADMINISTRATIVE AND LEGAL RISK

You accept full responsibility for complying with the laws and regulations of your country of residence. Any actions or transactions prohibited by applicable legislation are undertaken at your own risk. You are solely responsible for reporting income and communicating with relevant authorities as required by law.

TRADING RISK

- Any analytical or informational materials provided by JustMarkets Online Trading are for informational purposes only and do not constitute investment advice. You assume all risks associated with their use.
- Stop Loss orders may not always prevent losses, particularly in fast-moving or illiquid markets.
- You assume all risks related to insufficient knowledge of financial markets or trading platform functionality.
- Price gaps may occur between the market close on Friday and the market open after the weekend. If you are uncomfortable with this risk, you may choose to close positions before the weekend.

TRADING PLATFORM (CLIENT TERMINAL) RISK

- You acknowledge that the only reliable source of price quotations is the company's main trading server.
- Only one order instruction may be queued for execution at a single moment.
- Closing or modifying a trading window does not cancel instructions already submitted for execution.
- You accept the risk of unintended execution if multiple instructions are submitted before confirmation of prior orders.

Communication Risks

- Encrypted email communications may not always be fully protected from unauthorized access. While JustMarkets Online Trading implements appropriate confidentiality and data protection measures, it is not responsible for breaches resulting from access on your side (e.g., unauthorized access to your email).
- You agree not to disclose any confidential information and accept full responsibility for losses resulting from third-party access to such information. Confidential information includes, but is not limited to, passwords, access credentials, and account-related details.

FORCE MAJEURE

You acknowledge and accept all risks arising from force majeure events, including but not limited to natural disasters, market disruptions, or other extraordinary circumstances beyond reasonable control.

PSYCHOLOGICAL RISK

Trading in financial markets requires sustained focus and emotional stability. Physical or psychological conditions that impair judgment may adversely affect trading decisions and result in losses.

OTHER RISKS

The risks described in this disclosure are not exhaustive. You acknowledge and accept that additional, unforeseen risks may arise.

JustMarkets Online Trading is committed to building long-term relationships with its clients and prioritizes client awareness and responsibility. Clients are strongly encouraged to carefully review and consider all potential risks before engaging in trading activities.
